Foreword

Alii and warm greetings.

On behalf of the Government and people of the Republic of Palau, I am honored to welcome you to our home, Palau, for the 55th Pacific Islands Forum Leaders Meeting.

It is a privilege to host my fellow Pacific Leaders and our valued partners from across the region and beyond. As you gather here in Pristine Paradise Palau, we hope you experience both the natural beauty of our country and the warmth and hospitality of our people.

We are grateful for this opportunity to Chair the 55th Pacific Islands Forum Leaders Meeting. We undertake this responsibility with humility, recognizing that hosting this meeting reflects the collective effort and spirit of our entire nation.

As we convene under Palau's theme, B.E.L.A.U – Building Economies: Life. Action. Unity., we are reminded of our shared commitment to a resilient and united Blue Pacific.

For Palau, protecting our environment and addressing climate change remain central to our identity and future. As stewards of our ocean, we are guided by the understanding that the wellbeing of our people is inseparable from the health of our environment.

In the face of new and evolving challenges, our discussions here must lead to meaningful outcomes for our region and our people. It is my hope that this meeting will strengthen partnerships and advance our collective priorities with purpose and unity.

We warmly welcome you to Palau and wish you a productive and successful forum.

Mesulang,

Surangel S. Whipps Jr
President of the Republic of Palau

Republic of Palau

Palau, known locally as Belau, is a nation of more than 300 islands in Micronesia, celebrated for its pristine environment and vibrant culture. Its history reflects deep Pacific traditions alongside influences from successive colonial administrations, culminating in independence in 1994.

Palauan society is rooted in strong clan structures, matrilineal traditions, and respect for community and environment. Palau's capital is Ngerulmud, in Babeldaob island. Palau is composed of 16 states, each with its own identity and traditions, with Koror State serving as the commercial center - and the location of the 55th Pacific Islands Forum Leaders Meeting.

Delegates are encouraged to observe local customs, and respect environmental rules, including the Palau Pledge. Palau's beauty and cultural depth offer a unique setting for 55PIFLM, reflecting both the resilience of its people and their commitment to safeguarding the Blue Pacific.

For further information, including tours and activities, please visit the Palau Visitors Authority at pristineparadisepalau.com and/or speak to the Liaison Officer assigned to your delegation who can also provide local recommendations.

Meeting Dates and Venue

The 55th Pacific Islands Forum Leaders Meeting (55PIFLM) will be an in-person meeting held in Palau from 30 August to 4 September 2026. All main meetings will be convened in Koror while the Leaders Retreat will take place in an exclusive venue.

Theme

The theme for the 55th PIFLM – B.E.L.A.U – Building Economies: Life. Action. Unity. – reflects Palau's vision for a strengthened, resilient, and future-ready Blue Pacific Continent. Rooted in the identity and values of Palau and shared across the Pacific, the theme draws on the spirit of stewardship, community, and collective responsibility that has long guided our island societies.

Belau, the native name for the country, carries deep cultural and historical meaning. It evokes not only a place, but a people bound by tradition, respect for the environment, and a commitment to safeguarding resources for future generations. In this spirit, the theme serves as both a reflection of who we are Pacific peoples and a call to shape the future we aspire to achieve together.

At its core, B.E.L.A.U is structured around four interconnected pillars that reflect the priorities of the Pacific Islands Forum at this critical juncture:

Building Economies: This pillar underscores the importance of fostering sustainable and inclusive economic growth across the region. It calls for strengthening economic resilience, advancing innovation, and ensuring that development pathways are aligned with the unique needs and aspirations of Pacific island countries. It recognizes the importance of our ocean resources, tourism, and emerging sectors, while promoting economic systems that empower communities and safeguard environmental integrity for generations to come.

Life: This pillar places people and the environment at the heart of regional priority. It reaffirms the Pacific's leadership on climate action, ocean governance, and biodiversity protection, while emphasizing the wellbeing, health, and cultural vitality of Pacific peoples. It acknowledges that the survival and prosperity of Pacific nations are intrinsically linked to the health of our environment, and that safeguarding "life" in all its forms is a shared and urgent responsibility.

Action: Reflecting the growing urgency of global and regional challenges, this pillar calls for a decisive shift from commitments to implementation. It emphasizes the need for tangible, coordinated action at the national and regional levels, strengthened partnerships, and accountability in delivering on shared priorities. It signals the determination of Forum members to move beyond dialogue and into measurable outcomes that address climate change, economic vulnerability, and geopolitical pressures facing the Pacific.

Unity: This pillar reaffirms the enduring strength of Pacific regionalism. It highlights the importance of solidarity among Forum members, grounded in mutual respect, shared identity, and collective political will. In an increasingly complex global landscape, unity remains the region's greatest strength – enabling Pacific nations to amplify their voice, secure shared interests, and uphold a peaceful, stable, and prosperous Blue Pacific Continent.

Together, these pillars articulate a holistic and forward-looking vision for the region. The theme is both a reflection of the Pacific journey and a mandate for the future – one that calls on all members of the Forum family to work collectively in building resilient economies, protecting our environment and way of life, taking decisive action, and strengthening unity.

As Palau hosts the 55th PIFLM, this theme sends a clear message: that the Pacific is resolute in its commitment to its people, its resources, and its shared destiny. It affirms that through strengthened regionalism and collective action, the Blue Pacific Continent will continue to navigate global challenges on its own terms, guided by its values and united in purpose.

Appendix 1: Ministry of Health and Human Services

Public health needs and issues for the 55th Pacific Islands Forum Leaders Meeting will be managed by Palau's Ministry of Health and Human Services (MHHS).

MHHS will strictly enforce the prevention and control of infectious diseases during the Pacific Islands Forum by monitoring the following syndromes and events:

1. Acute fever and rash
2. Influenza-like illness
3. Dengue-like illness
4. Prolonged fever
5. Diarrhea
6. Conjunctivitis
7. Other unusual and unexpected events

All participants should follow any screening requirements set by MHHS. Health checks will be implemented as needed to detect potential symptoms and control any outbreaks.

While the Government of Palau is working hard to ensure that your stay during 55PIFLM is healthy and safe, each delegation is equally responsible for protecting their health while in Palau. To protect yourself against illness and injury, please plan ahead and follow the health advice below.

Disease control & prevention

Vector borne diseases such as dengue, chikungunya virus, zika virus, and lymphatic filariasis are endemic in many Pacific island nations. Protect yourself against vector borne diseases by using insect repellent morning, day and night, and using mosquito nets at night where practical.

Participants coming from countries with common vector-borne illnesses (malaria, dengue, leptospirosis, etc.) should ensure they take prophylaxis or prevention measures during their time in Palau. Countries with a history of recent outbreaks of viral illnesses such as measles, whooping cough, etc. must ensure health clearance for all members of the delegation.

Those with chronic medical conditions must ensure adequate supplies of personal prescribed medications are available and that complete medical assessments are done before travel.

Food borne illnesses can be prevented by practicing proper hygiene.

Vaccinations

All delegation members should be up-to-date on routine and recommended vaccinations including measles, mumps and rubella (MMR), diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTaP), and Polio (OPV or IPV).

Medical insurance

All delegations are advised to have their own medical insurance coverage for the following:

- Medical Evacuation Insurance: It is recommended that coverage be in place for all officials and volunteers. It is recommended that insurance include emergency medical transportation to nearby countries if specialized care is needed.
- Comprehensive health insurance: It is recommended that comprehensive health insurance include emergency medical treatment, repatriation (in the event a delegate requires return travel to their home country for ongoing treatment), dental care for emergency treatment, and travel and accommodation for evacuees.

Delegates should check if they are covered by event liability insurance. Liability insurance is particularly important in case the service needed is not available by Palau's Ministry of Health and Human Services (MHHS).

Palau hospital and health facilities

The Republic of Palau has one government hospital and 8 community health centers (CHCs). The main hospital, Belau National Hospital, is located in Meyuns, Koror. There are five community health centers which are located on the main islands of Koror and Babeldaob, while the remaining three are located on the islands of Peleliu, Kayangel, and Angaur.
